Share Your Photos for the 2016 Fact Book!

KIDS COUNT in Delaware is seeking photographs of Delaware children to use in our publications and products. We prefer to use photos that friends of KIDS COUNT in Delaware send us, showing Delaware children in settings representative of our state. If you would like to submit photos for consideration, please email them to: klowman@udel.edu

General Photo Preferences:
- High-quality images featuring Delaware children
- A variety of ages
- Single or group shots
- Diversity is encouraged
- Adults caretakers in photos are welcome
- Backgrounds that showcase Delaware are preferred

New Interactive Student Poverty Map

EdBuild, a nonprofit that advocates for public school funding, has released an interactive map that shows all the U.S. school districts where the student poverty rate exceeded 20 percent, 30 percent, and 40 percent, time-lapsed from 2006 to 2013. It’s based on Census data, which measures poverty in small units, such as school districts and counties. You can zoom in and search to see how your local district or region has fared. In Delaware, 38% of school districts have a student poverty rate that exceeded 20%.

If you would like to unsubscribe from this newsletter, please click here.